Cincinnati, July 28.—Charged with kidnapping in a warrant sworn to by the husband of the woman whom he forced to accompany him from Cincinnati to Loveland, O., and held there as a hostage for her husband's appearance to answer a charge of violating the prohibition laws. Wm. J. Fritzsch, deputy marshal in Mayor J. C. Little's court, surrendered to the police last night and was released on $1,000 bond. Action against Fritzsch resulted when Clarence Bell of Cincinnati, returned to his home after a short absence Thursday afternoon and found the following note pinned to the back of a chair:

"To Mr. Clarence Bell: We are until you appear before the mayor of holding your wife at Loveland, O., said village of Loveland to face a charge of possessing intoxicating liquor. We advise your immediate appearance or a warrant will be sworn to for you. Signature. William J. Fritzsch, deputy marshal."

Mrs. Bell, though she has been under a doctor's care for some time, was taken to Loveland with her little boy and held there in jail for several hours. Finally, she was released on her own recognizance after two charges of violating the prohibition law had been filed against her. Bell, meanwhile had consulted a lawyer and obtained the warrant for Fritzsch's arrest. The Cincinnati police characterized the deputy's action as the most "high handed procedure they had ever seen."

OPINION RIFE THAT WORKERS BACK IN WEEK

President Informs Cabinet That Industrial Skies Are Clearing.

FOLLOW CONFERENCE

Harding Points Out Result of Continuance of Labor Tieup.

Washington, July 28.—The paralyzing railroad strike is well on the way to settlement and President Harding was able to inform his cabinet when it met today that, for the first time in weeks the industrial skies of the nation are brightening.

While everyone concerned with the peace plans adopted a "sh-h-h" attitude today—"don't breathe or you may spoil it"—it was learned officially that from suggestions made and now under consideration by both railroad executives and strike leaders, it is considered entirely probable that the workers will be back at their jobs on all roads within a week.

"At least, the strike will be 90 per cent over," was the optimistic viewpoint of one cabinet officer.

So far as could be learned today President Harding laid out no cut-and-dried program of settlement in the conferences which continued at the White House until nearly midnight past night and which probably will be continued today and tomorrow as disputed points continue to arise. What the president did, according to administration spokesmen today, was to impress on both sides the incalculable gravity of the whole situation, and to point out that a settlement must speedily be effected if the country is to escape one of the worst winters in its history.

Officials of the Interstate Commerce Commission, from their expert knowledge on the railroad situation had informed the president that unless the strike is settled within two weeks the entire railroad structure of the country is threatened with collapse because of impaired equipment and lack of fuel. President Harding did suggest, it was learned today, that the strikers return to work immediately—on all roads if possible, and if not, then on those roads willing to restore the seniority rights vacated by the strikers when they left the shops four weeks ago.

This proposition was taken under advisement by the striking shopcrafts leaders and it is considered probable that within 48 hours the leaders will seek refuge in the United States consulate as a result of the efforts of certain Mexican officials to fix upon him responsibility for his recent kidnapping by bandits, said today he was trying to return to the United States. It was understood Mr. Bielaszki would remain in the consulate until the present investigation into the kidnapping of himself and Jesus Barcena, a Mexican lawyer, in the state of Morelos, is completed.

Meanwhile the shopcrafts leaders are conferring among themselves and T. Dewitt Cuyler, president of the association of railroad executives, has called a meeting of the heads of 148 railroad systems for New York next Tuesday. This will be one of the greatest single gatherings of railroad executives in years and the policies there adopted may have an important bearing on future railroad four weeks ago.

It was learned that many members of the "bloc" on both sides of the senate would regard with approval Crissinger's appointment as head of the board, especially as he has repeatedly criticized the deflation policy sponsored by Governor Harding. It was pointed out that the only federal reserve district which declined to carry out this policy was that of which Cleveland is the center, and in which Marion, where Crissinger has extensive banking interests, is situated. This was said to have been due to Crissinger's influence.

Some "bloc" members expressed confidence that the president would not reappoint Governor Harding.

Regard Reappointment Of W. P. C. Harding Doubtful

Strong Opposition of Senate Bi-Partisan Agricultural "Bloc" Develops to Head of Federal Reserve Board Is Word

Washington, July 28.—Reappointment of William P. G. Harding as governor of the federal reserve board was regarded as doubtful by senators today in view of the strong and concerted opposition of the senate bi-partisan agricultural "bloc" composed of more than a score of Republican and Democratic senators from western and southern agricultural states to his being permitted to continue in office after the expiration of his present term August 9.

It was stated that the "bloc" was united against Harding, who has been repeatedly criticized by some of its members for his policy of "contracted currency and deflated credit" adopted by the board, and that President Harding has been urged by several influential Republican leaders of the senate who are closely associated with the administration not to reappoint him.

D. R. Crissinger, comptroller of the currency, has been advanced by a number of Republican and Democratic senators in connection with the filling of the governorship of the board as a man who would meet with the approval of the "bloc."

Additional members of the commission will be appointed, it was stated, if the need for such action develops.

Action Follows Request of President To Ohio Governor

Columbus, July 28.—Formation of a state fuel commission, possessing full control of coal distribution to Ohioans during the present strike situation, was announced by Governor Davis today.

The governor's action constitutes compliance with a request by President Harding, transmitted through Secretary of Commerce Hoover.

DUBLIN, July 28.—The rapid progress of free state troops westward through Munster gives ground for hope that organized resistance on the part of the Republican irregulars will be broken within the next fortnight, said a communiqué issued from regular headquarters today.

BAYLIFFS TO PLAY MORROWS SUNDAY

The Bayliffs Electric will play the Morrow baseball team at the Washington street Park Sunday afternoon according to announcement of Manager Roy Bayliff.

Little is known in this section of the Morrow aggregation. The down-staters claim to have a real baseball team however, and are anxious to show their speed before the local fans.

Manager Bayliff will probably depend upon Captain "Jap" Ritter to do the hurling Sunday. "Jap" had been performing at short until two weeks ago, and trying to kid the management into believing that he was no pitcher.

Acepting the responsibility of stepping into the breach when the regular hurler did not show up, Ritter came through with a victory and repeated again last Sunday. Since the electricians have not lost a game with Ritter pitching they are not going to run the chance of changing luck by getting an unknown to do the hurling as long as "Jap" will stand for it.

Frantz, the Bellmont fat boy will be on the receiving end of Ritter's slants and the game will start at 2:30.

COURT NEWS

Seeks to Break Will

A suit to disprove the legality of the supposed will of the late Samuel Deacon was instituted in Common Pleas court Thursday by Sallie Huston, against Sarah Deacon, as executrix of the estate of Samuel Deacon, W. S. Deacon and Charles Deacon and Sarah Deacon.

The petition alleges Samuel Deacon died July 21, 1921 leaving the plaintiff and defendants W. S. and Charles Deacon as children and heirs-at-law and Sarah Deacon, his widow. August 1, 1921, according to the petition, a paper purporting to be his last will was probated and Sarah Deacon named executrix. The petition declares that by the terms of the will, Sarah Deacon was made sole legatee and devisee and the plaintiff seeks to have an issue made as to whether the paper was really the will and asks further that it be set aside. Attorney Charles L. Darlington represents the plaintiff.

Case is Dismissed

The case of The Miami Deposit Bank against W. M. Lewis, and others, has been settled and dismissed from Common Pleas Court without record.

Krepps Will Probated

The Methodist Episcopal Church and various societies of that denomination, will benefit by the will of Henrietta Krepps, which has been admitted to probate by Judge J. Carl Marshall.

The will includes bequests of $500 each to the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, incorporated under the laws of the state of New York; to the Board of the Parent Missionary Society of the M. E. Church; to the Cincinnati Conference of the M. E. Church for the benefit of conference claimants and to the trustees of Richland M. E. Church of the Union Circuit, Spring Valley Township, to be held in trust by them and the income to be used for the benefit of said society while it exists, and in event of non-existence, the biggest is to go to the Cincinnati Deaconess Home and Christ Hospital.

In the original will, signed January 8, 1902, the residue of the estate was to pass to the testator's sister, Magdalene Krepps who was also named executrix, with the provision that if she should pass to the children of other brothers and sisters, in event of her sister's death. Since the sister beneficiary is dead, the residue will pass to the children of Jeremiah Krepps, Eliza A. Stillings, Nancy A. Fulkerson, and Sarah E. Soward, each of whom will forfeit his share if he attempts to make trouble over the will. A codicil made June 25, 1918, names W. L. Miller, executor in place of the testator's sister.

Mr. Miller has been appointed executor by the court and has furnished $10,000 bond.

Will Admitted to Probate

The will of Nancy A. Fulkerson, admitted to probate by Judge Marshall, leaves all of the unappraised estate to the testator's husband, W. L. Fulkerson and after his death to pass to the children, George Walter Fulkerson, Clista Irene Sanders, Harvey E. Fulkerson, Charles Merrill Fulkerson, Iva Foy Fulkerson and Andrew S. K. Fulkerson.

The will was made June 25, 1913, and W. L. Fulkerson, named executor in the will has been appointed by the court, and R. R. Grieve, T. H. Bell and C. L. Babb have been appointed appraisers.

Ed. Schweibold Will Admitted

The will of Ed Schweibold, which has been admitted to probate, leaves all of the estate, both real and personal to the testator's wife, Harriet Alice Schweibold, who is also named executrix under the terms of the will, which was dated July 15, 1922. George M. Stiles, William Kearney and E. A. Fisher have been named appraisers by the court.

Social and Personal

MISSIONARY SOCIETY HAS ENJOYABLE MEETING.

The July meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the First United Presbyterian Church was held Wednesday afternoon at the beautiful country home of Mrs. Harvey Nash on the Hook Road.

Conveyances to and from the scene of the affair were provided by the congregation. Mrs. D. D. Dodds, presided at the meeting and Mrs. Alexander Bailey had charge of the devotions while Mrs. John M. Davidson and Miss Emma Davidson led in the singing.

Thirty-two members present responded to the roll call either with an item from the home missionary fields or an appropriate verse of Scripture. Interesting reports were received from the secretary and treasurer and the usual business meeting followed.

Miss Helen Martin, the honor guest, who has been a missionary in Egypt for the last six years, and who is now on furlough visiting in the Carruthers home and with other relatives, was presented and gave an interesting account of her experiences in foreign fields. Miss Martin also readily answered many questions propounded by the different members, giving instances of successful work accomplished through earnest patience and concentration.

The meeting closed with prayer offered by Mrs. William Finley Nash. Refreshments were served during the social meeting that followed to the thirty-two guests and three visitors, the hostess being assisted by Mrs. Lee Nash, Mrs. William Nash, Miss Huston Cherry and little Miss Margaret Davidson. The August meeting of the Society will be held at the home of Mrs. J. Carl Marshall, West Market Street.

CLASS ENTERTAINERS IN HONOR OF MISSIONARY

Miss Mary Kyle, who will leave the first of September for India where she will again take up her work in the United Presbyterian mission field after a furlough of a year spent in this country, was the honor guest at an enjoyable social affair held by the members of Judge C. H. Kyles Sabbath School class in the Second United Presbyterian Church, Tuesday evening. Early in the evening a program was enjoyed in the church parlors. A piano number was given by Miss Margaret Moorhead, a vocal solo by William Anderson, a vocal duet by Miss Martha and William Anderson and a group of readings by Mrs. Charles Proudfit. Following the program all adjourned to the dining room where refreshments were served and a program of toasts enjoyed. Judge Kyle serving as toast master. Miss Kyle Rev. David Gordon and Dr. Proudfit gave responses. Miss Kyle was given a pleasant surprise when Judge Kyle in behalf of the class, presented her with a gift of money. As a little farewell to Miss Kyle all sang the 121st Psalm and a benediction was pronounced by Rev. Gordon.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY HAS ENJOYABLE MEETING.

The July meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the first United Presbyterian Church was held Wednesday afternoon at the beautiful country home of Mrs. Harvey Nash on the Hook Road.

Conveyances to and from the scene of the affair were provided by the congregation. Mrs. D. D. Dodds, presided at the meeting and Mrs. Alexander Bailey had charge of the devotions while Mrs. John M. Dawson and Miss Emma Dymond led in the singing.

Thirty-two members present responded to the roll call either with an item from the home missionary fields or an appropriate verse of Scripture. Interesting reports were received from the secretary and treasurer and the usual business meeting followed.

Miss Helen Martin, the honor guest, who has been a missionary in Egypt for the last six years, and who is now on furlough visiting in the Carruthers home and with other relatives, was presented and gave an interesting account of her experiences in foreign fields. Miss Martin also readily answered many questions propounded by the different members, giving instances of successful work accomplished through earnest patience and concentration.

The meeting closed with prayer offered by Mrs. William Finley Nash. Cooling refreshments were served during the social meeting that followed to the thirty-two guests and three visitors, the hostess being assisted by Mrs. Lee Nash, Mrs. William Nash, Miss Huston Cherry and little Miss Margaret Davidson. The August meeting of the Society will be held at the home of Mrs. J. Carl Marshall, West Market Street.

FIRST LEGISLATION FOR IMPROVEMENTS IN ADDITION STARTS

First legislation to provide improvements in the Dodds Addition, formerly known as the Roberts tract, was started at the meeting of the City Commission held Thursday night, and attended by three of the five members.

The legislation took form in a resolution to provide sewer and water service in what is known as the First Addition, being the first plot of streets and lots laid off and sold when the addition was opened up two years ago.

The resolution provides for this service on the following streets: Detroit Boulevard, Monroe Street, Garfield Street, Corwin Street, Hayes Street, Park Drive, Edison Boulevard and Sheridan Street. Lot owners in the addition have been preparing a petition asking for these improvements. A majority of lot owners had signed the petition when it was presented to the commission at the last meeting of the commission and backers of the movement said every lot owner would eventually sign it.

The ordinance to provide assessments for street sprinkling was read for the second time and passed at the Thursday night meeting.

TAKEN TO DAYTON HOSPITAL AFTER SHOOTING FRIDAY

Philadelphia, Pa., July 28.—Any settlement of the mine strike will originate in the bituminous field rather than the anthracite. This is the essence of a statement made today by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, to Fire Captain Mahanna before the City Commission, which necessitated the appearance there of the men who handle the hose.

Harold Aiken, 15, colored, Church and Jefferson streets, was removed to St. Elizabeth Hospital, Dayton, Thursday under the direction of Mrs. Margaret Kelly, public health nurse with the Social Service League, for treatment of bullet wounds.

Refreshed by a long night's sleep, Mr. Lewis appeared more optimistic than ever as he sauntered about puffing on a huge cigar.

"A call for a joint interstate conference will be issued," he said, "but if the conference is held it does not mean that the miners will go back to work pending negotiations. We stand absolutely upon the status quo, and have not altered our position a single bit."

Tomorrow Frank Farrington, president of the Illinois miners, will be here. I have held over my other district leaders in order to confer with him."

CONFIDENCE THAT HARDING WILL PULL US THROUGH.

With a double menace against peace conditions—the miners strike which may mean no coal for some of us next winter, and the railroad strike which may mean failure to get about as we may wish—we all realize that conditions are pretty bad.

We have been rather jaunty in boastfulness that ours is the best country in the world, and in fact it has been so looked upon "over there" but lo now some of them are pointing the figure of scorn at us because we seem to be caught between the upper and nether millstone of unionism and non-unionism.

What the outcome is going to be is a problem of the future, but we notice that the great majority of people are optimistic on the subject, and are going along about their ordinary business feeling sure that the common sense of all is going to require that RIGHT shall prevail and WRONG be overcome.

And as a leading feature of this, which we may term "public opinion," we believe confidence in the wisdom of President Harding, plays no small part. This writer has known him for forty years, for half of which time annually broke bread with him at a Columbus hotel, and consequently is very well acquainted with him, and also with Mrs. Harding.

If we say that he is "conservative," we distinctly want it understood that we do not mean that he is opposed to progress. The dictionary meaning of the word conservative is "one who upholds the existing order of things and is opposed to premature changes." President Harding's fifteen months in the White House has shown the world this feature of his character. In other words, has shown him to be a SAFE man, in whom people have confidence.

This is why the country is jogging along feeling that some way or other the present unprecedented mixup in affairs will come out all right.

Of course it behoves all of us to "keep our heads." Getting excited does no good, and often results in bitterness of words and acts. Keep cool.

A TAFT VICTORY.

Chief Justice Taft's visit to England was a triumph. He smiled, ate and conquered. The fact that he went there for something quite different does not detract from the satisfaction felt by Americans in his success, and should not detract from his own satisfaction.

From the time he landed on the other side, the genial statesman and jurist was deluged with invitations. The English jaunt he was forced to spend mainly in attending dinners and luncheons and receiving university degrees. And he stood the ordeal manfully, both gastronomically and oratorically. Falstaff and Depew rolled into one could have done no better.

Everywhere Mr. Taft met with ovations. If there was any lurking hostility or indifference, it all melted away in the radiance of his expansive smile and sincerity of his words. The chief justice, it must be admitted, is a valiant "mixer" and expressive of the best traditions of the American banquet table. The song that greeted him in England, as it has a thousand times at home, "For he's a jolly good fellow," might have been written for him.

He did his country proud in eating his way through Great Britain without ever losing his smile or his friendliness or his appetite, and returning home with digestion unimpaired. Visiting Europeans, however, distinguished for their banqueting ability usually succumb to American hospitality and go home to recuperate. Mr. Taft comes home to keep right on shining for all as well as dispensing justice for all. He is a large spot of good cheer in a blue and neurasthenic world.

SELF-RUIN IN GERMANY.

Whether Germany gets the respite she seeks from payment of her war indemnities or not, she deserves little sympathy. If she does get the delay she asks, it should be accompanied by such penalties as will make her see promptness as a virtue from now on. Neither should any postponement be so planned that it puts an extra burden upon France, for in that case France and not Germany will be paying for the war, and that should be intolerable to other nations as it is to the French.

The condition of Germany's finances is less a pity than a disgrace. When the war which she precipitated closed, Germany was prosperous, undevastated, sound in credit and in condition to go ahead. The chief reason why she cannot now pay her just obligations without collapse is that she has systematically avoided the financial measures which would enable her to pay them.

There is less excuse for Germany than for Russia. She is headed by able men, and they have not the excuse of a crazy economic experiment to palliate their reduction of German credit to ruin.

OLD-FASHIONED HONESTY.

The reformer who says what the country needs is "a dose of old-fashioned honesty in public life" was partly right. What the country needs is honesty and intelligence, but it is hardly that the old-fashioned brand is any better than the modern. There is a great stir at present about the petty grafting of senators and representatives at Washington. These legislators who carry members of their families on the public pay roll as clerks and secretaries, though these relatives never show any signs of performing secretarial duties, are particularly singled out for dishonor.

There is no question about the dishonor. But there is nothing new about it. Public servants have fed their families at the public trough ever since there was any kind of public trough. Assyria and Babylon were not stainless in this respect, nor even Greece. "Nepotism" became the usual thing in Rome.

There is no excuse for the dishonesty of the public servant. It is a criticism of the intelligence of the public which keeps him in office.

Today's Talk

by George Matthew Adams

KNOW YOURSELF BETTER...

One of the reasons why we so often misjudge and misunderstand others is that we know so little about ourselves.

Happiness, contentment, smoothness of human contact is, after all, but the fulfilling of the most golden of all rules—the golden rule.

If you study yourself in such a way that you bring out all the finest abilities and elements that lie within you, then you multiply your bests and bring about a larger self that in turn also multiplies in the lives of others.

The reason why Aristotle was a greater and more useful philosopher than Plato was because he came closer to human action than Plato.

Plato wanted to remodel life without taking into consideration the deep and evident facts of life, whereas Aristotle wanted to start right off learning more about life before he sought to make it over.

The better we know ourselves the better are we prepared to understand others and to help them.

Before we criticize others, why not ask ourselves what our position would be under the same circumstances and environment?

As soon as we are able to establish some definite relation to life as a whole, then are we ready to take up its many problems and offer aid in their solution.

There are few of us indeed who do not feel the necessity of daily—even hourly—self-examination, self-study, and self-questioning. And yet it is by this method alone that we grow in self-control and self-mastery—ready to help another man.

Know yourself better.

It is a good sign as we grow older that we grow in silence or speech—saying less and thinking more.

And if we burst our shell, we are able to catch the clearer atmosphere of all humanity, then have we entered into the possible heritage of all.

But it all starts by knowing yourself better!

Rippling Rhymes

By WALT MASON

AH, WHERE?

Ah, where is the author of ten years since, whose works we hailed with a loud hurroo? Reviewers said, "Now another prince of dazzling genius comes into view." For a little while, in its gaudy tints, his halo rattled us humble dubs; we saw his name in the public prints, and he was strong at the Woman's Clubs. He talked of Art as his fame arose, and looked like Booth on a one-right stand, was photographed in a queenly pose, his chin at rest on a lily hand. Ah, where, oh, where is that author now, and where the books that he designed to write? And where is the wreath on the bulging brow, and the Hall Caine beard and the ringlets bright? I've sprung this query on every chump, and harsh and changeless the answer rings: "Go ask the keeper who guards the dump, the seneschal of forgotten things." New genius comes with the glowing dawn, and night beholds it a shattered wreck; but old Nick Carter goes marching on, and Laura Libbey is still on deck. And evermore as I go my way I see men blowing their chickenfeed for helpful volumes by Bertha Clay and soulful stories by Myrtle Reed. Oh, now and then let a dirge be sung for the golden genius that failed to thrive; we cannot say why the good die young, we cannot tell why the freaks survive.

CONFIDENCE THAT HARDING WILL PULL US THROUGH.

With a double menace against peace conditions—the miners strike which may mean no coal for some of us next winter, and the railroad strike which may mean failure to get about as we may wish—we all realize that conditions are pretty bad.

We have been rather jaunty in boastfulness that ours is the best country in the world, and in fact it has been so looked upon "over there" but now some of them are pointing the figure of scorn at us because we seem to be caught between the upper and nether millstone of unionism and non-unionism.

What the outcome is going to be is a problem of the future, but we notice that the great majority of people are optimistic on the subject, and are going along about their ordinary business feeling sure that the common sense of all is going to require that RIGHT shall prevail and WRONG be overcome.

And as a leading feature of this, which we may term "public opinion," we believe confidence in the wisdom of President Harding, plays no small part. This writer has known him for forty years, for half of which time annually broke bread with him at a Columbus hotel, and consequently is very well acquainted with him, and also with Mrs. Harding.

If we say that he is "conservative," we distinctly want it understood that we do not mean that he is opposed to progress. The dictionary meaning of the word conservative is "one who upholds the existing order of things and is opposed to premature changes." President Harding's fifteen months in the White House has shown the world this feature of his character. In other words, has shown him to be a SAFE man, in whom people have confidence.

This is why the country is jogging along feeling that some way or other the present unprecedented mixup in affairs will come out all right.

Of course it behooves all of us to "keep our heads." Getting excited does no good, and often results in bitterness of words and acts. Keep cool.

A TAFT VICTORY.

Chief Justice Taft's visit to England was a triumph. He smiled, ate and conquered. The fact that he went there for something quite different does not detract from the satisfaction felt by Americans in his success, and should not detract from his own satisfaction.

From the time he landed on the other side, the genial statesman and jurist was deluged with invitations. The English jaunt was forced to spend mainly in attending dinners and luncheons and receiving university degrees. And he stood the ordeal manfully, both gastronomically and oratorically. Falstaff and Depew rolled into one could have done no better.

Everywhere Mr. Taft met with ovations. If there was any lurking hostility or indifference, it all melted away in the radiance of his expansive smile and sincerity of his words. The chief justice, it must be admitted, is a valiant "mixer" and expressive of the best traditions of the American banquet table. The song that greeted him in England, as it has a thousand times at home, "For he's a jolly good fellow," might have been written for him.

He did his country proud in eating his way through Great Britain without ever losing his smile or his friendliness or his appetite, and returning home with digestion unimpaired. Visiting Europeans, however, distinguished for their banqueting ability usually succumb to American hospitality and go home to recuperate. Mr. Taft comes home to keep right on shining for all as well as dispensing justice for all. He is a large spot of good cheer in a blue and neurasthenic world.

SELF-RUIN IN GERMANY.

Whether Germany gets the respite she seeks from payment of her war indemnities or not, she deserves little sympathy. If she does get the delay she asks, it should be accompanied by such penalties as will make her see promptness as a virtue from now on. Neither should any postponement be so planned that it puts an extra burden upon France, for in that case France and not Germany will be paying for the war, and that should be as intolerable to other nations as it is to the French.

The condition of Germany's finances is less a pity than a disgrace. When the war which she precipitated closed, Germany was prosperous, undevastated, sound in credit and in condition to go ahead. The chief reason why she cannot now pay her just obligations without collapse is that she has systematically avoided the financial measures which would enable her to pay them.

There is less excuse for Germany than for Russia. She is headed by able men, and they have not the excuse of a crazy economic experiment to palliate their reduction of German credit to ruin.

OLD-FASHIONED HONESTY.

The reformer who says what the country needs is "a dose of old-fashioned honesty in public life" was partly right. What the country needs is honesty and intelligence, but it is hardly likely that the old-fashioned brand is any better than the modern. There is a great stir at present about the petty grafting of senators and representatives at Washington. These legislators who carry members of their families on the public pay roll as clerks and secretaries, though these relatives never show any signs of performing secretarial duties, are particularly singled out for dishonor.

There is no question about the dishonor. But there is nothing new about it. Public servants have fed their families at the public trough ever since there was any kind of public trough. Assyria and Babylon were not stainless in this respect, nor even Greece. "Nepotism" became the usual thing in Rome.

There is no excuse for the dishonesty of the public servant. It is a criticism of the intelligence of the public which keeps him in office.

Today's Talk

by George Matthew Adams

KNOW YOURSELF BETTER...

One of the reasons why we so often misjudge and misunderstand others is that we know so little about ourselves.

Happiness, contentment, smoothness of human contact is, after all, but the fulfilling of the most golden of all rules—the golden rule.

If you study yourself in such a way that you bring out all the finest abilities and elements that lie within you, then you multiply your bests and bring about a larger self that in turn also multiplies in the lives of others.

The reason why Aristotle was a greater and more useful philosopher than Plato was because he came closer to human action than Plato.

Plato wanted to remodel life without taking into consideration the deep and evident facts of life, whereas Aristotle wanted to start right off learning more about life before he sought to make it over.

The better we know ourselves the better are we prepared to understand others and to help them.

Before we criticize others, why not ask ourselves what our position would be under the same circumstances and environment?

As soon as we are able to establish some definite relation to life as a whole, then are we ready to take up its many problems and offer aid in their solution.

There are few of us indeed who do not feel the necessity of daily—even hourly—self-examination, self-study, and self-questioning. And yet it is in this method alone that we grow in self control and self-mastery—ready to help another in.

Know yourself better.

It is a good sign as we grow older that we grow in silence or speech—saying less and thinking more.

And if we burst ourself-shells, we are able to catch the clearer atmosphere of all humanity, then have we

Rippling Rhymes

By WALT MASON

AH, WHERE?

Ah, where is the author of ten years since, whose works we hailed with a loud hurrah? Reviewers said, "Now another prince of dazzling genius comes into view." For a little while, in its gaudy tints, his halo rattled us humble dubs; we saw his name in the public prints, and he was strong at the Woman's Clubs. He talked of Art as his fame arose, and looked like Booth on a one-right stand, was photographed in a queenly pose, his chin at rest on a lily hand. Ah, where, oh, where is that author now, and where the books that he deigned to write? And where is the wreath on the bulging brow, and the Hall Caine beard and the ringlets bright? I've sprung this query on every chump, and harsh and changeless the answer rings: "Go ask the keeper who guards the dump, the seneschal of forgotten things." New genius comes with the glowing dawn, and night beholds it a shattered wreck; but old Nick Carter goes marching on, and Laura Libby is still on deck. And evermore as I go my way I see men blowing their chickenfeed for helpful volumes by Bertha Clay and soulful stories by Myrtle Reed. Oh, now and then let a dirge be sung for the golden genius that failed to thrive; we cannot say why the good die young, we cannot tell why the freaks survive.

NEGOTIATIONS FOR STRIKE CONTINUE

Cleveland, July 28.—Peace "purlparks"—under cover but never the less official and definite—are still being exchanged between the striking union coal miners and operators of the Pittsburgh Vein, operating mines in eastern Ohio, the International News Service learned from a reliable authority today.

It is hoped to have a conference representing a majority of the tonnage of the central competitive field, comprising western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, meet here and settle their differences at the conference table without the intervention of any outside authority. The original date for the meeting was named as Saturday but the delay in the exchange of peace feelers may cause a slight postponement, but will not prevent the conference, it is believed.

TUESDAY WILL BE CIRCUS DAY HERE IT IS ANNOUNCED

"Here she comes, fellers, lookee the elephants. Bet those tigers and lions is fierce! Quit crowdin' I wanna see the acrobats."

Remarks similar to the above will be heard on Xenia streets Tuesday morning unless circus parades and children fail to run true to form, when Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus, which will perform here Tuesday afternoon and evenings at the Reserve Ball Park on Cincinnati Avenue displays its wares on the streets of the city that morning at 10:30.

The show is making a one-day stand in Xenia, because of a change in schedule necessitated by failure of rail transportation from Lancaster Thursday, because of inability to move its equipment, dates in Chillicothe, Portsmouth and Marion were cancelled and the snow proceeded to Washington, D. C., where it will play Saturday. Wilmington will be the next stop Monday and from there the circus will come to Xenia for performances Tuesday.

The tented city is scheduled to spring up at dawn Tuesday at Reserve Ball Park on Cincinnati Avenue, where all the bustle and activity incident to the arrival and establishment of a circus will take place. The parade which is characterized as one of the most gorgeous street spectacles this city has ever witnessed will start promptly at 10:30 o'clock, and will be over the following route: Show grounds to Cincinnati Avenue to Third street, east to Detroit Street, north to Market Street, east to Green Street, south to Main Street, west to West Street, south to Concourse Avenue and show grounds.

From the great band chariot, a flame with scarlet and gold and green and silver, through the long line of equestriennes gorgeously costumed and the scores of open dens, to the massive steam caliope the parade will be a triumph of moving spectacles. Aside from the herds of elephants and camels, zebras, Hindoo cattle and tiny Snetland ponies there will be numerous cages throughout whose open sides could be seen gigantic bears, tigers, lions, monkeys and snakes, a monster hippopotamus and other wild beasts of the forest and jungle from the shores washer by the farthest sea.

According to advance press reports the fat famed and wonderful trained wild animal acts are larger and better than ever this year. The super troupe of high-school and trick horses form another feature.

Of course the funny fellows are there—a very army of Merry Andrews—ad the daring races of the Hippodrome, flat races, standing races with the most daring bareback riders that have ever entered the arena.

The afternoon performance will commence at 2:15 o'clock. The evening performance commences at 8:15 o'clock, the doors will be open an hour earlier in order that all may have an opportunity of visiting the menagerie.

TABLE FRANCHISE ORDINANCE AT MEET

The proposed franchise granting right of way to the Springfield & Xenia Traction Company to operate cars on North Detroit Street, was read for the second time by the City Commission Thursday night, but was tabled.

The tabling of the ordinance was partly because of the fact that Commissioners H. L. Smith and M. J. Hartley were not present at the meeting and partly because of opposition that developed from Commissioners Fisher and DeHaven regarding an agreement concerning paving between the tracks.

The ordinance will be read again at the next commission meeting.

RAIL SHOPS AT LIMA ARE REOPENED FRIDAY

Lima, July 28.—Lima shops of Lake Erie and Western railroad were reopened today, with a crew of 25 mechanics and helpers, according to J. Maginn, superintendent of the road here.

This was the first move this line has made to open its shops since the beginning of the nation wide strike of railway shopmen on July 1 and followed the issuance of an injunction in federal court at Cleveland Tuesday. Supt. Maginn said that the force would be increased steadily as work requires.

Committeemen representing shopmen of the Pennsylvania were served with injunctions yesterday restraining men from doing picket duty.

SUGGESTIONS FOR A "STORK SHOWER"

A reader of this column, Mrs. S., has sent in the following excellent suggestions for a stork shower:

"Manage to get the honoree to the home where the shower is to be held, without her suspecting about the shower. There are a number of ways of presenting the gifts, such as the following:

1. Give her a telegram stating that her clothes are on the line and that, as there is a storm coming, she had better bring them in. Then lead her into another room, where all the pretty baby garments are hung on a clothesline.

2. Or an empty clothesline may be hung in the living room, where the guests are assembled, when the honoree arrives, and a "washwoman" (one of the guests dressed up) may come in, carrying a clothesbasket of baby clothes, and proceed to hang these on the line. As she hangs them on, she chats endlessly about the weather, the work she has to do, the pains in her back, etcetera—finally announcing that the clothes she has just washed are for "Mrs. —" (the honoree's name).

3. The gifts may be hidden in a large, hand-made cotton stork which is given to the honoree with the instruction to rip the seams.

4. A "fish pond" may be arranged by letting all the guests fish over a screen, behind which stands one of the party. The hostess tell everybody that they may fish a second time if they "get a parcel with a number on it." Several of the guests fish before the honoree, and these will be the touch of brilliance which so often is the making of a successful evening outfit.

As you can see from the sketch, nothing can be simpler than the cut of this frock, its unusualness lying in the effect of flowing gracefulness achieved by the narrow panels at the side in the back. These may be accomplished by desperate pieces of material, or by using the entire width of the material for the back of the dress. The former method I have observed, permits more graceful fitting.

Styles BY LENORE

One of the most popular types of evening dresses which I have observed at smart dinner and dance places is the style I have illustrated today. It is worn usually in white and is most often embroidered in an all-over pattern of crystal beads, though sometimes merely in white silk. Nor is it unusual to see the model entirely plain, depending only upon an elaborate beaded girdle to give it character.

A reader of this column, Mrs. S., has sent in the following excellent suggestions for a stork shower:

"Manage to get the honoree to the home where the shower is to be held, without her suspecting about the shower. There are a number of ways of presenting the gifts, such as the following:

1. Give her a telegram stating that her clothes are on the line and that, as there is a storm coming, she had better bring them in. Then lead her into another room, where all the pretty baby garments are hung on a clothesline.

2. Or an empty clothesline may be hung in the living room, where the guests are assembled, when the honoree arrives, and a "washwoman" (one of the guests dressed up) may come in, carrying a clothesbasket of baby clothes, and proceed to hang these on the line. As she hangs them on, she chats endlessly about the weather, the work she has to do, the pains in her back, etcetera—finally announcing that the clothes she has just washed are for "Mrs. _____" (the honoree's name).

3. The gifts may be hidden in a large, hand-made cotton stork which is given to the honoree with the instruction to rip the seams.

4. A "fish pond" may be arranged by letting all the guests fish over a screen, behind which stands one of the party. The hostess tell everybody that they may fish a second time if they "get a parcel with a number on it." Several of the guests fish before the honoree, and these

CENTRE COLLEGE HEAD ADDRESSES LOCAL ROTARIANS

Xenia friends of Dr. R. Ames Montgomery, president of Centre College, Kentucky, and formerly pastor of the Presbyterian Church, here, welcomed him when he came to this city Friday to address the local Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon at the Elks' Club.

Dr. Montgomery left Xenia with his family in 1909, and he was located at Fairfield, Iowa, until his election as head of Centre College, last June. He is a leading Rotarian, and in his address Friday dwelt chiefly upon the Rotary idea of service and brotherly love. Walter R. Harner, who recently arrived home after attending the International Rotary convention at Los Angeles, told the Rotarians about his trip. Music was rendered by the Metropolitan Quartette.

It was decided at the meeting that a recess would be taken by the club until the regular time for the first weekly meeting in September.

TURKISH BATH RESTORES SIGHT

Philadelphia, Pa., July 28.—Dr. Samuel J. Deal, 81, of 2206 North Hancock street, has had his sight restored by a night in a turkish bath. The doctor was asleep when it happened.

Recently the doctor, who is a graduate of the Jefferson Medical college here, lost his vision to such an extent that he could only distinguish between night and day. For no apparent reason, he became obsessed with the idea that if he had a good night's rest in a turkish bath it might help him.

Accordingly he visited a local emperium and went to sleep leaving instructions that he be awakened six hours later. He is now able to see perfectly. A group of reputable doctors have examined Dr. Deal and are nonplussed at the miraculous restoration of his sight after all medical skill had failed.

SHOOTING VICTIM AT HOME; RESTING COMFORTABLY NOW

Mrs. W. O. Maddux, who was shot in the right breast Thursday by the discharge of a 22 calibre pistol rifle which she accidentally knocked from a mantel, was resting comfortably at her home on the Columbus pike near Cedarville, Friday afternoon.

No attempt has been made to locate the bullet, which surgeons believe took an upward course, and probably lodged in muscles of the shoulders. It had been expected to bring her to the McClellan Hospital for an x-ray examination Friday morning, but the trip was delayed.

Mrs. Maddux was dusting articles in the room where the accident occurred. The weapon had been taken from a gun cabinet Wednesday night for the purpose of shooting at an owl, and it was laid on the mantel instead of being replaced in the cabinet. Mrs. Maddux was dusting in the cabinet, and she believed that a rod used for cleaning gun barrels, which she had in her hand struck the rifle and knocked it from the shelf. As it struck the floor it was discharged.

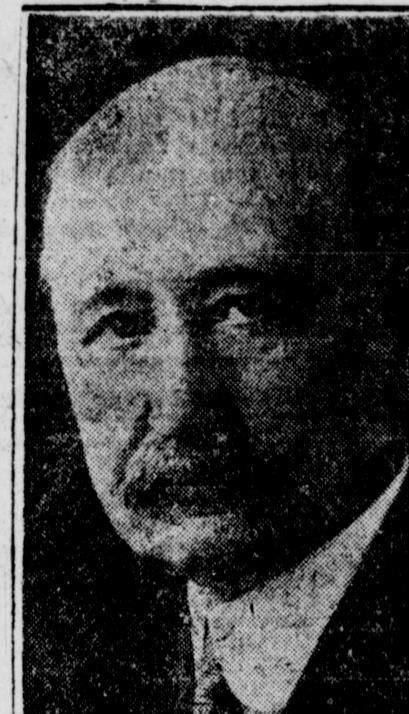

Reaching the telephone, the injured woman notified Miss Anna McCorkle, operator at the Citizens' exchange in Cedarville, of her plight. She then proceeded to wash out the wound, and had that accomplished when neighbors and Dr. J. O. Stewart, who were called by Miss McCorkle, reached the house. Mr. Maddux, who was assisting in threshing wheat on a neighboring farm, and Miss Anna Crampton, sister of Mrs. Maddux, who is employed at the Jobe store, were also notified immediately of the accident.

RICHMOND TO BE MECCA FOR MANY QUAKERS IN SUMMER

Richmond, Indiana, — Quakers from all parts of the United States and England will have Richmond as their goal this Summer and Fall. Four great gatherings of Friends, two of which are held here annually, one of which is held but once each five years and the other but once each four years, will be the cynosure of all eyes of Quakers this year.

Greatest of all sessions will be that of the The Five Year Meeting of Friends in America, the governing body of those of the orthodox faith, which will be held from September 5 to September 12. Each of the thirteen yearly meetings in America and Canada is permitted to send six official delegates regardless of the membership of the meeting. One delegate for each 2,000 members over a given quota is also allowed.

Information from officials of the Five Years Meeting, whose offices are here, indicate that between 600 and 600 hundred friends will be present for this parent conference, besides the most prominent members of the denomination in America, John Henry Barlow, former clerk of London Yearly Meeting and presiding clerk at the All Friends Conference held in London in 1920, will be present for an address. He will be accompanied by his wife, GILLET WILL ATTEND.

Rountree Gillett, head of Friends social work in London, is another prominent English Quaker to be present, as will also Barrow Cadbury, well known among Friends in America and England.

Some of the American Friends to be on the programme include Frederick J. Libby, executive secretary of the National Council for Reduction of Armaments, Washington, D. C.; Elbert Russell, head of the Woolman School, Philadelphia, and Rufus Jones, professor of philosophy at Haverford College, Philadelphia.

Of equal importance to Quakers of the Hichsite branch of the Church is the general conference of Hichsite Friends to be held here August 26 to September 2. The conference is composed of seven yearly meetings, and its sessions are so rotated that the assembly meets in Richmond once every four years.

At least 400 people are expected to attend the conference. More than 100 Friends are expected from Philadelphia, New York, Boston and Baltimore.

Among the better-known speakers to address sessions of the conference will be Charles Foster Kent, professor at Yale University; William J. Reagan, president of Oakwood Seminary, New York; Jessie Holmes, of Swarthmore College and Roy A. Haynes, Federal Prohibition Commissioner.

REAGAN LEADS DISCUSSIONS.

In addition to the regular business, there will be round-table discussion on various subjects, including a series of round tables and forums to be led by William J. Reagan, of New York. Devotional meetings will be held each day.

The Young Friends General Conference, to be held on Earlham campus July 21 to 31, is the immediate Quaker gathering attracting its annual interest among Friends from all States of the Union, Indiana, Western and Ohio Yearly meetings always are most conspicuously represented at these conferences.

Other yearly meetings however, are expected to send their quotas, and twenty-five to thirty young Friends from Philadelphia Yearly Meeting are among those looked for.

Addresses by E. T. Alberton, general secretary of the Indiana State Sunday School Association, and the Rev. Miles H. Krumbin, pastor of the First Lutheran Church of Dayton, Ohio, are to be features of the ten days' session.

FIRE CAPTAIN IS SUSPENDED FROM LOCAL DEPARTMENT

Fire Captain Charles Mahanna was permanently suspended as head of the fire department on charges filed by City Manager S. O. Hale following a trial before the commission Thursday night.

Although attorneys for the deposed fire head gave notice of an appeal to the local civil service commission, L. B. Clare, Osborn, former Dayton fireman, has been temporarily appointed to succeed Mahanna with indications that he will be made Fire Captain permanently if the suspension is sustained by the civil service body.

Captain Mahanna was tried before the commission, Thursday night, on specific charges filed by the Manager, Wednesday, charging him with gross neglect of duty and alleging that he was incapacitated for duty Saturday July 15, because of intoxication. The charges followed a request made Monday that Mahanna resign, which he refused to do.

Wednesday the temporary suspension was ordered and the Fire Captain notified of the suspension and of the opportunity to be given a hearing before the City Commission Thursday evening. At the same time Clare was installed as Fire Captain temporarily in order that the department would not be without a head pending the outcome of the trial.

Mahanna denied the charges filed when given a hearing on the stand Thursday night. He was represented by Attorneys Marcus Shoup and Harry D. Smith, who introduced ten or twelve witnesses to prove that the Fire Captain was sober on the day mentioned. The city called members of the city fire department in support of the charges that the fire head was intoxicated at the time, and City Solicitor J. A. Finney prosecuted the case. Mahanna will be given ten days in which to appeal the case to the civil service commission.

Temporary Fire Captain Clare is a former member of the Dayton Fire Department and has had four years experience in that work. He resigned from the Dayton department some time ago and has since been making his home in Osborn and employed at Elder & Johnson's store, Dayton. He was recommended to city officials by Fire Chief Ramby of Dayton, two district chiefs and the service director of that city.

Clare has been on a leave of absence for several days from his work in Dayton in order to look for a new house, the residence he is occupying in Osborn now, being in the path of movers who are taking properties to the new Osborn site. He had charge of the Fire Department here Thursday and City Manager Hale arranged for an extended leave of absence Friday morning so that he can continue to head the department pending the action of the civil service commission on Mahanna's appeal. Clare returned to this city Friday afternoon to assume his temporary duties. If appointed permanently he will move his wife and two children to this city.

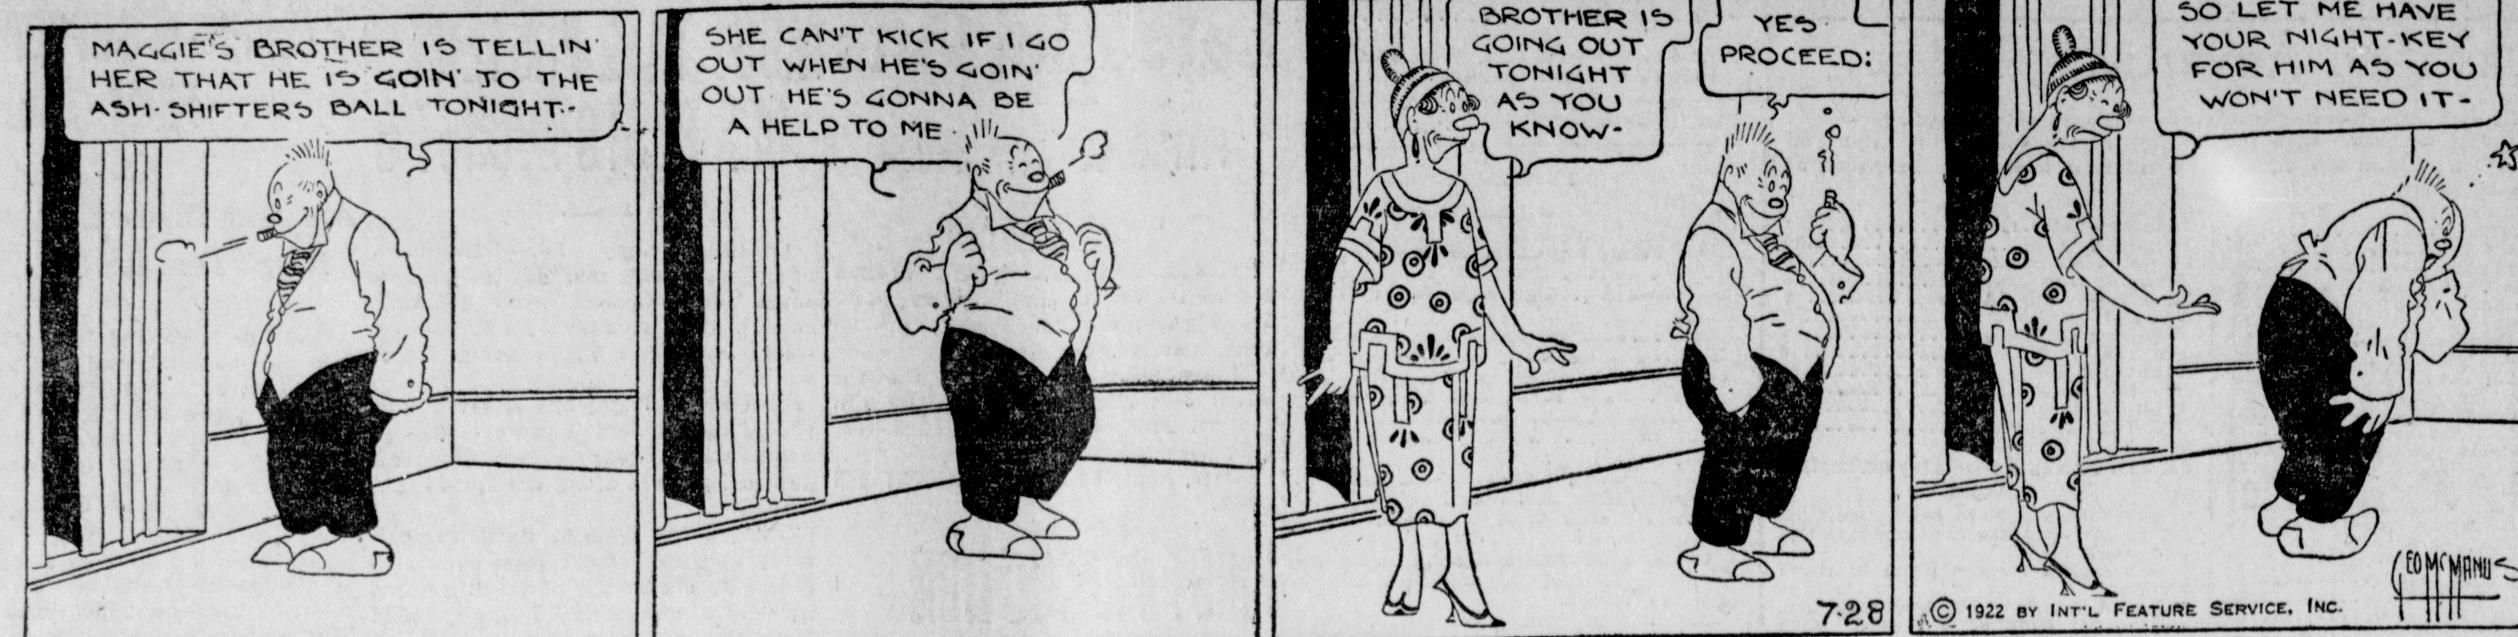

The appointment of Clare is believed to be carrying out tentative plans that have been in the minds of city officials for some time, to be attempted whenever a vacancy at the head of the department should exist which is to name a fireman who has had experience in a large city, as head of the department. Other cities in this section have carried out similar plans successfully, it is said.

The deposed Fire Captain is serving his fifth year as a member of the department, and his fourth year as head of the fire fighters. He was made Fire Captain since former Fire Chief William Buckles was pensioned on half-time service early in the regime of former Manager Kenyon Riddle. Although he has been actual head of the department on duty, the titled and authority of chief of the fire department is vested in the city manager by the provisions of the charter.

The specific charges made in the letter suspending Mahanna as Fire Captain are as follows: "Gross neglect of duty in that on Saturday, the 15th day of July, you were incapacitated in the performance of your duties, as such fireman, by reason of drunkenness or said date; that on said date you were on duty but by reason of this becoming intoxicated while so on duty you were totally unable to perform your duties as fireman of the city of Xenia."

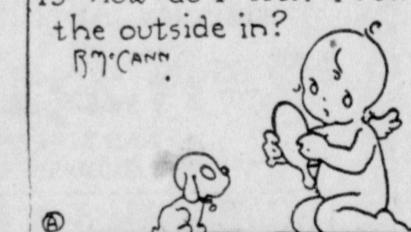

Only three members of the commission were present, Dr. A. D. DeHaven, acting president, and Commissioners George E. Hudson and Harry

DEPUTY ATTACKED; SEVERELY BEATEN

Cincinnati, July 28—U. S. marshals are searching for a man who attacked and so badly beat Howard Gau, special U. S. deputy, that he was sent to a hospital. Gau was serving writs in the injunction suit of the Baltimore and Ohio restraining striking shopmen from interfering with operation of the company.

According to the story Gau told U. S. marshals, he approached a man and asked where he could find one of the persons named in the writ he was serving. Gau said the man exclaimed, "I suppose you are another one of those railroad dicks" (detectives) and began to attack him.

The extent of Gau's injury has not been determined, attending physicians stated.

CLEVERLY CONCEALED STILL UNEARTHED BY LOCAL AUTHORITIES NEAR BELLBROOK THURSDAY EVENING; THREE ARE ARRESTED

Hidden in an excavation beneath a poultry house with tunnelled passageways connecting with cleverly concealed entrances, a typical moonshine still was unearthed by local authorities, on what is known as the old Mills property, a mile south of Bellbrook on the Beavercreek and Waynesville road, Thursday night.

In custody, charged with manufacturing liquor are Tony Szymansky, 20, former address, 209 Ziegler Street, Dayton, Thomas Miller, aged 21, formerly of Perry Street, Dayton, and Charles Hosea, whose former address was Hamilton. They were arrested at the residence on th farm.

At the illicit still the officers confiscated eleven barrels of mash, five gallons of whiskey. Each barrel of mash contained a peck of rye in a sack. Several empty jugs were found concealed in a haymow.

Szymansky was the only one of the trio arrested when the officers appeared at the place at 7 o'clock Thursday evening. A second trip was made Friday morning, Pennsylvania Detective "Tacks" Lattimer accompanied the sheriff and Deputy Day and Miller and Hosea were arrested.

Both were at the house, but when the automobile containing the officers approached the dwelling, Miller started to run. He ran directly into the arms of Detective Lattimer, who had been sent by a roundabout way to guard the rear of the illicit still while the other officers approached the front.

Hosea and his family, consisting of his wife and baby and his mother, and Miller who is a single man, live on the raided farm.

Szymansky told the officers that his wife and two children live at the Ziegler street address in Dayton. Elaborate plans to evade detection

A CHAT ABOUT A WOMAN EMPLOYER

"I am so discouraged, Gladys," Mary Norton said after they had chatted a bit.

"What's the matter, Mary?"

"I'm out of work, have tried every where. But business is slow, they are laying off girls instead of taking them on. I thought I would try getting a place with a woman boss. I have had one or two unpleasant experiences with men, and then I thought in an office where a woman was the head the petty jealousies between the girls would be eliminated.

Arraigned before Justice of the Peace J. E. Jones on Friday morning Szymansky entered a plea of guilty to the charge of manufacturing liquor. Sentence was withheld by the justice. Miller and Hosea pleaded not guilty to the same charge, and will have their hearing before Justice Jones Saturday morning at 9 o'clock. All three were remanded to custody.

The three men said they bought the Mills place, which consists of seven acres, and well kept buildings about three weeks ago, from W. S. Anglesby of Bellbrook.

"I'm out of work, have tried every where. But business is slow, they are laying off girls instead of taking them on. I thought I would try getting a place with a woman boss. I have had one or two unpleasant experiences with men, and then I thought in an office where a woman was the head the petty jealousies between the girls would be eliminated.

I have had one or two unpleasant experiences with men, and then I thought in an office where a woman was the head the petty jealousies between the girls would be eliminated.

"What's the matter, Mary?"

"She did think she would have discouraged you," Gladys remarked.

"Yes," I replied. And gave them her hand. "You should have seen her read them. Her black eyes seemed to just snap up the words."

"Didn't she say anything?" Nellie asked.

"Yes, she said they seemed all right. Then she asked me what pay I wanted. I told her $18, just what I had in my last place."

"Too much!" she said in that business-like way. "I can't pay over $12. Business doesn't warrant it. Then she turned to her desk as if that ended it.

"I'll take it until I prove I am worth what ask," I told her but she said she wanted no dissatisfied girl in her office, one who was all the time thinking she was worth more than she was getting; that anyway she had partly promised the position to another girl. I went away and, Gladys, I couldn't feel sorry I didn't get the job, badly as I needed it. It wasn't fair to judge all women employers by her, any more than it is fair to judge all men by one who isn't the right sort."

"What makes you say that?" Nellie asked. "Did you try another woman?"

"Yes I didn't get the job, but she was so kind. Said she wished she could afford an experienced girl but she could pay only $8. I can't live on that because I have to send money home."

"What can I do for you?" Her manner was quick and business-like. I told her I came in answer to the advertisement."

"References?" she snapped.

"Yes," I replied. And gave them her hand. "You should have seen her read them. Her black eyes seemed to just snap up the words."

"Didn't she say anything?" Nellie asked.

"Yes, she said they seemed all right. Then she asked me what pay I wanted. I told her $18, just what I had in my last place."

Captain Mahanna was tried before the commission, Thursday night, on specific charges filed by the Manager, Wednesday, charging him with gross neglect of duty and alleging that he was incapacitated for duty Saturday July 15, because of intoxication. The charges followed a request made Monday that Mahanna resign, which he refused to do.

Wednesday the temporary suspension was ordered and the Fire Captain notified of the suspension and of the opportunity to be given a hearing before the City Commission Thursday evening. At the same time Clare was installed as Fire Captain temporarily in order that the department would not be without a head pending the outcome of the trial.

Mahanna denied the charges filed when given hearing on the stand Thursday night. He was represented by Attorneys Marcus Shoup and Harry D. Smith, who introduced ten or twelve witnesses to prove that the Fire Captain was sober on the day mentioned. The city called members of the city fire department in support of the charges that the fire head was intoxicated at the time, and City Solicitor J. A. Finney prosecuted the action. Mahanna will be given ten days in which to appeal the case to the civil service commission.

Temporary Fire Captain Clare is a former member of the Dayton Fire Department and had had four years experience in that work. He resigned from the Dayton department some time ago and has since been making his home in Osborn and employed at Elder & Johnson's store, Dayton. He was recommended to city officials by Fire Chief Ramsey of Dayton, two district chiefs and the service director of that city.

Clare has been on a leave of absence for several days from his work in Dayton in order to look for a new house, the residence he is occupying in Osborn now, being in the path of movers who are taking properties to the new Osborn site. He had charge of the Fire Department here Thursday and City Manager Hale arranged for an extended leave of absence Friday morning so that he can continue to head the department pending the action of the civil service commission on Mahanna's appeal. Clare returned to this city Friday afternoon to assume his temporary duties. If appointed permanently he will move his wife and two children to this city.

The appointment of Clare is believed to be carrying out tentative plans that have been in the minds of city officials for some time, to be attempted whenever a vacancy at the head of the department should exist which is to name a fireman who has had experience in a large city, as head of the department. Other cities in this section have carried out similar plans successfully, it is said.

The deposed Fire Captain is serving his fifth year as a member of the department, and his fourth year as head of the fire fighters. He was made Fire Captain since former Fire Chief William Buckles was pensioned on half-time service early in the regime of former Manager Kenyon Riddle. Although he has been actual head of the department on duty, the title and authority of chief of the fire department is vested in the city manager by the provisions of the charter.

The specific charges made in the letter suspending Mahanna as Fire Captain are as follows: "Gross neglect of duty in that on Saturday, the 15th day of July, you were incapacitated in the performance of your duties, as such fireman, by reason of drunkenness on said date; that on said you were on duty but by reason of this becoming intoxicated while so on duty you were totally unable to perform your duties as fireman of the city of Xenia."

DEPUTY ATTACKED; SEVERELY BEATEN

Cincinnati, July 28—U. S. marshals are searching for a man who attacked and so badly beat Howard Gau, special U. S. deputy, that he was sent to a hospital. Gau was serving writs in the injunction suit of the Baltimore and Ohio restraining striking shopmen from interfering with operation of the company.

According to the story Gau told U. S. marshals, he approached a man and asked where he could find one of the persons named in the writ he was serving. Gau said the man exclaimed, "I suppose you are another one of those railroad dicks" (detectives) and began to attack him.

The extent of Gau's injury has not been determined, attending physicians stated.

CLEVERLY CONCEALED STILL UNEARTHED BY LOCAL AUTHORITIES NEAR BELLBROOK THURSDAY EVENING; THREE ARE ARRESTED

Hidden in an excavation beneath a poultry house with tunnelled passageways connecting with cleverly concealed entrances, a typical moonshine still was unearthed by local authorities, on what is known as the old Wags property, a mile south of Bellbrook on the Bejirook and Waynesville road, Thursday night.

In custody, charged with manufacturing liquor are Tony Szymansky, 20, former address, 209 Ziegler Street, Dayton, Thomas Miller, aged 21, formerly of Perry Street, Dayton and Charles Hosea, whose former address was Hamilton. They were arrested at the residence on th farm.

At the illicit still the officers confiscated eleven barrels of mash, five gallons of whiskey. Each barrel of mash contained a peck of rye in a sack. Several empty jugs were found concealed in a haymow.

Szymansky was the only one of the trio arrested when the officers appeared at the place at 7 o'clock Thursday evening. A second trip was made Friday morning, Pennsylvania Detective "Tacks" Lattimer accompanied the sheriff and Deputy Day and Miller and Hosea were arrested.

Both were at the house, but when the automobile containing the officers approached the dwelling, Miller started to run. He ran directly into the arms of Detective Lattimer, who had been sent by a roundabout way to guard the rear of the illicit still while the other officers approached the front.

Hosea and his family, consisting of his wife and baby and his mother, and Miller who is a single man, live on the raided farm.

Szymansky told the officers that his wife and two children live at the Ziegler street address in Dayton. Elaborate plans to evade detection

A Stenographer's Romance

BY JANE PHELPS

A CHAT ABOUT A WOMAN EMPLOYER

Soon after Cora left a girl from Gladys' home town came in.

"I am so discouraged, Gladys," Mary Norton said after they had chatted a bit.

"What's the matter, Mary?"

"I'm out of work, have tried every where. But business is slow, they are laying off girls instead of taking them on, I thought I would try getting a place with a woman boss.

I have had one or two unpleasant experiences with men, and then I thought in an office where a woman was the head the petty jealousies between the girls would be eliminated.

I answered an advertisement of a woman real estate agent. It was a nice looking office, no one there but a very young girl at the telephone desk. I asked for Mrs. Barrett, that was the agent's name and the girl said she would be in soon, that she was showing some flats.

"Ever work for a woman boss?"

she asked me when I told her I had come in answer to the advertisement.

I told her I had not, but thought I would like to.

"They get awfully fussy sometimes," she said, "mostly over little things. Go off half-cocked, and don't wait to find out the right of things.

Then if they don't rent their places it makes them cross. Someway they can't seem to take things like men do—and they take it out on the stenographer. Unless I'm here, then it's just as apt to be me catches it. They get rattled, too, easier than men.

And they never forget if you make a mistake. Why, Mrs. Barrett will bring up a mistake I made a month ago just as if I had made it today. Of course there is one thing in working for a woman—you don't have to put up with any nonsense like you have to from a man, especially in my position. But you don't get the tips either, so I guess it's about even.

Stephen."

"I should think she would have discouraged you," Gladys remarked.

"She did in a way, but I was desperate," Mary Norton replied. "I had spent nearly all I had saved."

"It's awful to want a job so bad,

I know!" Nellie broke in she always listened with intense interest to any story told by a working girl.

"I asked her if she would advise me to wait," Mary went on. "She had made me feel that if I did get the place it wouldn't last. She said:

"Not unless you're up against it pretty hard. They work you awfully times," she said, "mostly over little things. Go off half-cocked, and don't wait to find out the right of things.

Then if they don't rent their places it makes them cross. Someway they can't seem to take things like men

Stephen."

"References?" she snapped.

"Yes," I replied. And gave them to her. You should have seen her read them. Her black eyes seemed to just snap up the words."

"Didn't she say anything?" Nellie asked.

"Yes, she said they seemed all right. Then she asked me what pay

I wanted. I told her $18, just what I had in my last place."

"Too much!" she said in that busi-
